

---

---

Bio

N. Toussaint’s decision to create an Interpersonal communication consulting company was fueled by her interesting, positive, and challenging personal and workplace experiences, stories shared by friends, family, coworkers, and strangers about their personal and workplace communication experiences, and her love of engaging with people from diverse backgrounds.

She has provided public speaking coaching for individuals and retreat experience, communication consulting, and workshops for groups/organizations. Her presentations are custom, quality, effective, informative, practical, multimodal, creative, engaging, interactive, energetic, and fun experiences.

N. Toussaint has earned degrees in Broadcasting/Media Studies, Communication Studies, and Organizational Communication Studies. In addition to being a Communication Consultant and Public Speaking Professional, she has worked for organizations in the roles of Training Program Manager, Communications Manager, and Learning and Organizational Development Consultant.

---

If printing this document, blank spaces on the page may be used for consultation notes (ideas, suggestions, questions) and/or for edits of event introduction of N. Toussaint.